

AI Transparency & Ethical Use

How Mourning Dove Uses Artificial Intelligence Responsibly

Artificial intelligence is a tool—not an author, editor, or decision maker. Mourning Dove uses generative AI to help rewrite existing factual news stories into language that is calmer, more hopeful, and emotionally neutral while preserving the underlying facts.

The AI is not instructed to invent information, fabricate events, or alter the truth of a story. Instead, it removes unnecessarily inflammatory wording, sensational phrasing, and emotionally charged language that can amplify stress without improving understanding.

Every article begins with reporting from established news organizations. AI is then used to adapt the writing to fit Mourning Dove's editorial philosophy: delivering factual information in a way that promotes mental well-being rather than anxiety.

This approach reflects the belief that technology should enhance human health and understanding—not manipulate it. The goal is not to change reality, but to change how reality is presented.

Mourning Dove is committed to transparency. AI is used openly, with clear guidelines and human oversight, in service of creating a healthier relationship between people and the news they consume.
